Presession email: how to prepare and appointment confirmation

Dear [parent name],

It would be great if you could find some time to read carefully this email, as it includes directions and some important information about your appointment.

Your visit will last approximately 2 hours, with the study itself lasting between 15 and 30 minutes each.

!! Important information: how to prepare for the appointment? The study in which [baby name] is going to participate uses a brain imaging method that can be disturbed by metal. Therefore, it would be really helpful if you and [baby name] are not wearing any metal.

-  Baby clothing. It would be great to wear elasticated leggings with a t-shirt without metallic buttons. If baby is wearing a vest/body under their clothes, please make sure the poppers are not metallic. [in colder months: We appreciate that in the current weather it might be hard to find warm clothes that meet these standards. Our suggestion would be to choose base layers that are metal free (e.g. a t-shirt and leggings), and then add additional warmer layers that you may then remove right before starting the study if they contain metal.]
-  Adult clothing. We would like to ask if you could please avoid items like jeans and wear leggings or joggers instead (slip-on dresses with no metal buttons/zippers are also a good option). If you wear a bra, please choose a fully fabric bra. If you feel comfortable to take off your bra for the duration of the session, the lab has a private changing space where you could do that.
-  Glasses. If you indicated on the screening form that you wear glasses, please wear contact lenses for your visit if you normally use them, otherwise be prepared to remove your glasses for the duration of the session, as discussed.
-  I don't have non-metal clothes, what do I do? We are aware that avoiding metallic poppers in baby clothes can be difficult, so if you don't have anything at home that is metal free, we do have some non-metallic spare clothes available to change your baby in. If you are unsure about whether your clothes contain metal, do not worry as we have some scrub tops and bottoms you can also change into, however we think it may be more convenient for you to be already dressed appropriately, rather than having to change once here.
-  Jewellery and shoes. We will ask you to remove your shoes as well as any metallic jewellery for the duration of the session.

 How to find us and where to park? [lab-specific directions re: how to reach the lab and parking instructions].

 Upon arrival. [lab-specific instructions on what to do on arrival].

 Duration of the appointment. The appointment will take approximately 2 hours. The actual study won't last that long, but we want to have plenty of time to:

- explain you all about the study and answer any questions you might have about what we study and how;
- allow time for you and/or your baby to change, if needed;
- allow time for feeding and/or nappy changing, if needed.

If you have any questions, feel free to get in touch anytime, otherwise, we look forward to meeting you and [baby name] on [appointment date].

With best wishes,
